Collecting data and daily sound recordings from the never ceasing traffic, which surrounds Bow Church, our new work focuses on the use of digital technology to create a series of sequences and patterns which form parameters for the sound works. The classical music scene in Ireland has always been a difficult place for both musicians and composers.

As a seasoned polar veteran, Williams also knows a thing or two about construction Perovich recalls, he was doing a field experiment a couple of years ago to test a hypothesis: If there's more open water in the Arctic, then there should be more sunlight and thus more phytoplankton. I apologize that this project is limited to US
